Red Ventures is seeking a Platform Engineer to join our team, we're currently small team of 4 engineers working within the Red Ventures greater organization to try and solve enterprise deployment problems of all kinds. Over the last year we have developed a set of tools and processes on top of a really fun and unique stack that has seen tremendous growth in the last 6 months. We are looking to further expand this team to double down on the ever-growing roadmap of this year and beyond.

This role is unique in that it is a software engineering position that focuses (and relies) on a strong basis of cloud and deployment understanding. This means you will have to be as comfortable doing full-stack web application development, as you are deploying containers in ECS or writing Terraform.

Tech We Use

Elixir, React, AWS, Docker, Postgres, terraform, Redis, Golang, Travis-ci

Requirements

- 4+ years of hands-on development experience working in Ruby, Python, PHP, etc
- Strong knowledge of AWS platform and technologies (EC2, S3, IAM, etc.)
- Experience working with Docker
- Experience with CI platforms like TravisCI/CircleCI/Jenkins
- Strong knowledge of the software development lifecycle (we build for it and use it every day
- Strong knowledge of managing infrastructure in an automated fashion
- Solid understanding of git
- A security-first mindset

Nice to Have

- Experience with Elixir/React/Go

- Experience with database management in MySQL or Postgres

- Experience with database design

- Experience with terraform

- Experience setting up CI/CD

We Offer:

- A small, agile software development team environment

- Full medical, dental, vision, disability, and life insurance

- Paid vacation

- 401(k) with employer contributions

- Snacks, drinks, foosball, and more
